The Hard To Fit IN Clothing & Shoes.

It's one of our hobbies to fit people that can't be fitted anywhere else. In order to do this, we are forced to carry a very large stock, by far the largest in this part of the country. It's a great satisfaction and a pleasure to go to a store where you can and then get a fit in it. And more than all to be able to see the price in plain figures, and to KNOW that it is the lowest price to anybody. And still further to know that if you are dissatisfied with your purchase after you get home, your money will be refunded as cheerfully as it was received.

ACCUSES TAYLOR.

Wharton Golden Names the Leading Conspirators.

Details of the Plot Laid Bare By
One Who Was a Participant
In the Scheme.

Frankfort, Ky., March 24.—In all its horrible brutality the alleged conspiracy to assassinate Senator Goebel and other Democratic legislators was laid bare to-day by Wharton Golden, in his testimony before Judge Moore. Golden said he was practically one of the participants in the crime, that he knew the outline of the plans, that he was Caleb Powers' intimate friend, and that he was told in advance what was to happen next day.

"Caleb Powers told me to tell John Hurst, of Harlan county, to send 10 witnesses to Frankfort who were regular mountain feudists," said Golden. The listeners began to crane their necks to hear. He was growing interesting. Colonel Tom Campbell was skillfully leading the examination and drawing out the story.

"The day before the shooting John Powers and I started out of Caleb's office. He stopped and talked with a black-haired man, and I saw him give this man a key. Then Powers said to me: 'Goebel is going to be killed this morning.' I answered: 'That must not be done.' Powers said: 'Don't get excited, I gave that man the wrong key.'"

Intense Interest.

The interest was growing intense. The spectators instinctively leaned forward in their chairs to catch every word of the witness, who talked in a low tone. He seemed about to collapse several times, he was so frail and weak. He volunteered no testimony, seemed loath to answer some of the questions, and hesitated frequently before answering. His answers were always specific, though brief, and made a strong impression.

"On the morning of the shooting I heard Caleb Powers, Treasurer Day, E. J. Howard and Governor Taylor talking. The others were asking Taylor why he didn't call out the militia, and Taylor said: 'You people must act first. The soldiers are all ready and will get out quick enough, but you fellows must do something first.'"

This was the climax. Men in the court room turned and looked at each other in amazement. Caleb Powers' face was a study. He was deadly pale, and his mouth gave a convulsive twitch every few seconds. The scene was growing dramatic. Golden was laboring under suppressed excitement, and would turn and look behind him as if expecting an enemy. He was on the verge of collapse from the nervous strain, and a few moments later, when the direct examination was concluded, he asked permission to retire and lie down, as he was exhausted.

The prosecution had practically closed its case when Golden was taken ill in the courtroom and when court meets Monday morning the witness will be cross-examined by the attorneys for the defense if he is able to be brought into court. Half a dozen of the commonwealth's witnesses who know small details that will weave the net tighter about the chief conspirators have not been introduced and will not be. Among the thirty odd witnesses summoned for the defense only about ten are to be introduced in the case of Powers and no more sensational testimony is expected to be brought out. The efforts of the defense will be devoted mainly to refuting the testimony of witness Golden.

No further arrests will be made, so it is reliably stated, until the April grand jury has investigated and returned indictments. The sensational testimony of Golden at the afternoon session of the court started the rumor that warrants would be immediately issued for Taylor, Howard and others mentioned by the witness, but it was quickly denied. It is thought that Day and Cullum will waive examining trial after the judge acts in the Powers case.

SPANISH TACTICS.

Taylor's Soldiers Laying a Mine at The Arsenal.

A Lieutenant Buys One Hundred
Feet of Fuse For it at a Local Store.

Frankfort, Ky., March 24.—Republican guards in charge of the state arsenal are said to have laid a mine in front of the arsenal connected from inside by wire and which might be touched off in event of attack. The Democratic soldiers were greatly excited this evening when it became known that a Republican military officer had purchased 100 feet of fuse from a local hardware merchant. It developed later that the fuse was to be attached to a mine planted at the arsenal. Trenches were discovered dug outside the arsenal with wire laid in them.

Lieut. Wm. Berkele, of the Taylor guards, bought the fuse at the hardware store of Mr. C. E. Collins, on Broadway, opposite the capitol. The city police are investigating.

Judge Field entered judgment in accordance with his recent rulings, overruled a motion for a new trial and granted counsel for the Republicans an appeal to the Court of Appeals. The record in the case is made up and will be submitted early next week. A decision from the Court of Appeals is expected within a week or ten days.

Cures All Blood Humors

America's Greatest Spring Medicine.

It is now up to Bill Taylor to clear his skirts or prepare to face a jury. He was in an adjoining room to the one occupied as an ambush by Gov. Goebel's assassins. He protected the criminal from arrest and aided his escape. He has since attempted to assist the accomplices to escape in disguise, armed with money weapons and bogus pardons. These are plain facts upon which there is no dispute. They are crimes apart from other numerous high handed proceedings of a more or less political nature. Now comes Wharton told of Taylor's secret agents to bring assassins to Frankfort, for the avowed purpose of wholesale murder and to act as tools in the conspiracy hatched and executed under the roof that sheltered Taylor. The time has come to lay the heavy hand of the law upon Taylor and take him down from the high perch upon which he is resting. He should be put in jail before he escapes and kept there until he proves his innocence of the charge brought against him by one of his own trusted followers.

Chairman Allie W. Young has not yet called a meeting of the State Central committee. As the convention to select delegates to Kansas City must be held within ninety days, it is believed that this convention should be held as soon as possible after matters are settled at Frankfort and that a gubernatorial convention, if held, should be late in the summer or early in the fall. Another argument being used in favor of two conventions is that Bryan's endorsement should be by a convention whose delegates would be called together for no other purpose, and the earlier the better.

THE WHEAT CROP.

Acres Large—Growth Advanced—Some Damage by Freeze.

In some sections of the county the wheat crop suffered considerably by the recent freeze, where it was not protected by the snow. The growth on the highlands suffered more than that on the bottom land, it seems. In many places the growth was unprotected, thus practically destroying it. Where the crop was protected it looks well and is far advanced for the season. The acreage is probably twenty-five per cent larger than for several years.

In Memory of Mrs. H. E. Loney.

The passing away of this lovely woman has brought deep sorrow to many hearts, not only in this community, but wherever she was known. Mary Hise Norton was the youngest daughter of the late Eckstein Norton, former president of the L. & N. railroad, her mother being Miss Lucy P. Moore, of Christian county, Kentucky. In November, 1897, she was married to Mr. Henry E. Loney, of New York City, and while visiting her mother in Asheville, N.C., she died after a brief illness March 17th. Her sudden death was a great shock to relatives and friends.

Mrs. Loney was of a bright and sunny disposition, and her generous heart delighted in acts of kindness and mercy. She had for several years been a member of the Episcopal church, a sincere Christian, who manifested her religion by word and deed, as all who knew her well could testify. The writer of this imperfect sketch gladly bears witness to her many virtues. Our warmest sympathy goes out to the devoted invalid mother, the bereaved husband, the sorrowing brothers and sisters, and the numerous relatives and friends of the loved one. But we "Sorrow not, even as others which have no hope, for if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him.

A Great Show.

In speaking of Sparks' show which exhibits in Hopkinsville Monday afternoon and night, April 2, the Selma, Ala., Daily News:

Sparks' railroad shows came to town Sunday and pitched their tent on the old Donaldson lot in John street.

They were greeted by a good audience yesterday and it is not giving them undue praise to say that they gave an exhibition that is first class in every respect. It's a cheap show and a good show; a show that appeals to the impetuous man and compels the warmest encomiums from the gentlemen of larger income.

Sparks has the smallest baby elephant performer in the world and its intelligent actions delight the little folks and excite the wonder and admiration of those of taller stature.

The trapeze work and acrobatic feats would be hard to excel, while the other features of the performance are all deserving of special mention.

The grand double balloon ascension could not be gone through with yesterday, owing to the strength of the breeze that was blowing. Today, however, if the weather permits, the wonderful parachute leap will be made.

This is the last day here and two performances, as on yesterday, will be given. Popular prices will prevail—10 and 20 cents. Go out and see it and take the kids along.

It is not known how the fire originated. The loss on stock and fixtures amounts to about $1,500. The building was worth several hundred dollars. There was no insurance.

The interment took place yesterday afternoon in the Stewart burying ground, not far from Gracey.
